Tuesday's Thought Week Four

Teach me to do thy will; for thou art my God: thy spirit is good; lead me into the land of uprightness. ~ Psalm 143:10

How often do we pray and ask God to make us teachable? Not just to help us learn something new, but to give us a teachable heart.

As we continue through Romans 12, we're reminded not to think of ourselves more highly than we ought to think. A teachable spirit recognizes that we don't have all the answers, that there is always room to grow, and that God can use others to teach us something if we're willing to listen.

What if we started praying not just for wisdom, but for a heart that is willing to be corrected, humble enough to listen, and obedient enough to follow where God leads?

This week's challenge: Ask God to reveal any area where pride, stubbornness, or the need to be right might be keeping you from growing. Pray for a teachable heart, and be willing to receive the instruction He places before you.
