Our Reasonable Service

Week Four Reflection

Living a transformed life means choosing to respond like Jesus. We cannot always control what others do, but we can control what we allow to shape our hearts and how we respond.

Is there someone whose actions have made it difficult for you to respond with love, grace, or forgiveness?

What would it look like to overcome evil with good in that relationship?

When you are hurt, is your first response to retaliate, withdraw, or seek God's wisdom and direction?

This week as we close out this study, we want to challenge you to intentionally choose one person or situation where you can respond differently. Speak a blessing instead of criticism, offer kindness instead of retaliation, or take a step toward peace. Ask God to help you reflect Jesus, even when it is difficult. Doing this is a step toward living a transformed life for God.
